

CDKL5 Disorder - Quick Facts

CDKL5 Disorder is a rare genetic disorder affecting mostly females

CDKL5 Disorder does affect boys

Almost all of those affected by CDKL5 Disorder have seizures

Almost all of those affected by CDKL5 Disorder cannot speak

All those affected by CDKL5 Disorder have developmental problems

They can also have challenges...

- sleep • feeding
- respiratory
- gastrointestinal
- movement
- stereotypies

Despite this...

Just because they cannot speak doesn't mean they can't communicate

Just because they have developmental problems doesn't mean they can't learn

With your help, we can make a difference, we can give them a voice and a chance to flourish
